GAUDEAMUS IGITUR

Let us live then, and be glad
While young life's before us!
After youthful pastime had,
After Old age hard and sad,
Earth will slumbe o'er us.

Brief is life, and brevity
Briefly shall be ended:
Death comes like whirlwind strong
Bears us with his blast long;
None shall be defended.

Live this University
Men that learning nourish!
Live each member of the same
Long live all that bear its name;
Let them ever flourish!

GAUDEAMUS IGITUR

Gaudeamus igitur, juvenes dum sumus (Rep)
Post jucundam juventutem, post molestam senectutem,
Nos habebit humus, nos habebit humus.

Vita nostra brevis est, brevi finietur (Rep)
Venit mors velociter, rapit nos atrociter,
Nemini parceretur, nemini parceretur.

Vita Academia, Vitat Professores, (Rep)
Vitat mebrum quodlibet, vivant membra wuaelibet,
Semper sint in flore, semper sint in

The need for enhancement of service delivery through community consultation and participation is clearly articulated in this study. The study encourages members of public to play a more meaningful role in terms of their involvement on issues of service delivery. The study also sought to determine the manifestation of the concept of public participation as a tool to enhance service delivery and try to examine the current structures, mechanisms and legislative frameworks for the facilitation of public participation in the Capricorn District Municipality. The results of the study were used to develop recommendations to implement better strategies, informed structures and models for effective public participation as well as the factors that need to be taken into consideration when planning for best practice. Some of the recommendations which were proposed to enhance service delivery in the district are Good governances, quality managing resources, empowering members of public to hold the district accountable and institutional capacity, adhering to Constitutional directives and proper coordination between community structures.

The findings and recommendations of this study will be tabled in the office of the Speaker at the Capricorn District Municipality and part of the study will be published in the African Journal of Public Affairs in due course.

This research showed that there are lacunas in the methodological design, development, implementation and evaluation of business intelligence systems within higher education institutions, particularly South African higher education institutions (SAHEIs). SAHEIs need a Context-Aware Business Intelligence Framework (CABIF), to assist them in aligning their core business processes and information technology. CABIF is defined as a situated set of concepts, techniques, tools, ideas or facts that provide support for business intelligence initiatives within the SAHEIs. This study reveals that the institutionalization of institutional research and BI in public SAHEIs is still an area to explore. Universities should put systems in place that provide data for them to govern the institutions efficiently and effectively, hence the need for CABIF. The researcher managed to design, develop, implement and evaluate the CABIF based BI tools that spanned from leveraging the existing ICT infrastructure, Student cohort analysis, Module and student at Risk, Viability of academic entities, Enrolment key performance indicators and Forecasting government block grants. Overall, this research provided a myriad of new conceptual and practical insights into how contextualised aspects of BI directly or indirectly impact on the quality of managerial decision making within various core business contexts of South African higher education institutions.

The research has resulted in the publication of 6 peer reviewed conference papers and 2 journal papers.

Nembudani Ratshilumela Simon investigated the role of the integrated development plan (IDP) in community development in the Capricorn District Municipality. This municipality has four local municipalities which are Blouberg, Lepelle-Nkumpi, Molemole and Polokwane. In conducting this research, a mixed approach of both qualitative and quantitative methods were used through the distribution of questionnaires to the district officials, municipal councillors, traditional leaders, managers and members of the public. The questionnaires were used in order to source out information which was analysed using Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS) software. Findings of this research revealed that there were key managerial positions which were occupied by acting managers. There is also a language barrier of IDP amongst community members and this makes people to lose interest in the IDP processes and meetings. Some members of the community do not even understand the meaning of the term IDP as a tool of community development. Traditional leaders and community members who are less educated would understand better the role of IDP if it is communicated in their own language. The language barrier is an obstacle towards service delivery and the formulation and implementation of IDP. Community must be consulted and explained on what processes and procedures to follow in order to voice out their opinions in the most democratic and accountable way so that they should not vandalize their IDP projects. Municipal councillors and managers must promote and uphold good governance in order to accelerate the role of the IDP in community development.
