

All Set for 2026: University Registrar Welcomes Students as Registration Gets Underway

The University Registrar, Dr Joel Baloyi

The University of Venda (UNIVEN) has officially commenced preparations for the 2026 academic year, with the Registrar's Division recently conducting a comprehensive Selection, Admission and Registration Dry Run.

The University Registrar, Dr Joel Baloyi, extended a warm welcome message to both newly admitted first-year students and returning students.

"On behalf of the University of Venda, I would like to warmly welcome all our first-year students. Congratulations on successfully passing your matric and thank you for choosing UNIVEN as your university of choice. UNIVEN is now your home, and we are committed to supporting you throughout your academic journey," said Dr Baloyi.

He further welcomed returning students, expressing appreciation for their continued commitment to their studies at the institution.

“To our returning students, we thank you for your loyalty and perseverance. Your decision to continue your studies with us reaffirms your trust in the University of Venda, and we look forward to another successful academic year together.”

The dry run forms part of the University's ongoing commitment to institutional readiness, improved service delivery and operational efficiency, ahead of the 2026 registration cycle. It brought together key stakeholders involved in the admissions and registration value chain to simulate processes, test systems and assess operational workflows under real-time conditions.

Dr Baloyi explained that the purpose of the dry run was to improve understanding of the end-to-end registration process, reduce assumptions, and address challenges proactively.

“As application numbers continue to grow, it is essential that our systems remain fair, transparent and efficient. Lessons learned from 2025, have informed improvements aimed at ensuring a smooth and seamless registration process in 2026,” he said.

As the University prepares to welcome students for the 2026 academic year, all prospective and returning students are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the Selection, Admission and Registration processes and to follow official communication channels.

The University of Venda cautions all prospective and returning students to remain vigilant against fraudulent activities related to admission and registration. Students are strongly advised not to pay any individual or third party for admission, registration or placement, as the University does not use agents or intermediaries for these processes. All selection, admission and registration activities are conducted strictly through the University's official systems and communication channels.

Any request for payment, admission assistance or guaranteed placement outside official UNIVEN platforms should be treated as fraudulent. Students are encouraged to report any suspected fraud or unethical conduct through the University's confidential Fraud and Whistle-Blowing Hotline on 0800 212 755 or via email at univenhotline@tip-offs.com. The hotline operates 24 hours a day, ensuring that reports can be made safely and confidentially.

For detailed information on application status tracking, admission outcomes, registration requirements, and important dates, students are advised to visit the University of Venda's official website at www.univen.ac.za.

Through this initiative, UNIVEN reaffirms its dedication to delivering a student-centred, efficient and transparent registration experience for the 2026 academic year.

SRC President Ushers in the 2026 Academic Year with a Message of Resilience and Leadership

As the gates of the University of Venda opened once more to welcome the 2026 academic year, a renewed sense of purpose settled over the campus. Students arrived with dreams, expectations, and questions about the journey ahead. Standing firmly at the centre of student leadership was Mr Tirani Mathye, the SRC

President, ready to welcome every student into a new chapter of growth and transformation.

In his message to the student community, Mr Mathye emphasised that the beginning of a new academic year is not just about returning to lecture halls, but about embracing the resilience required

In his message to the student community, Mr Mathye emphasised that the beginning of a new academic year is not just about returning to lecture halls, but about embracing the resilience required to succeed. He reminded students that learning is a process, one that demands patience, consistency, and courage. Challenges are inevitable, he noted, but they are the very tools that shape a true UNIVEN graduate.

Speaking directly to both first-year students and returning students, Mr. Mathye highlighted the proud legacy of the University of Venda. UNIVEN, he said, has consistently demonstrated that it produces highly capable leaders and graduates who are highly respected in the workplace. His advice was simple yet powerful: trust the process. The university is not just a place of instruction, but a ground for the upbringing of future leaders, and every student is part of that journey.

At the heart of this journey stands the Student Representative Council. According to Mr Mathye, the SRC remains the backbone of the student body, more than just a structure of representation. It is a home of unmatched academic, social, and emotional support. For 2026, the SRC has positioned itself to be proactive, thinking and feeling for students even before challenges are formally raised. The goal is clear: to ensure that no student feels unheard, unsupported, or alone.

Mr Mathye also spoke about the responsibility students carry in maintaining a safe, respectful, and productive learning environment. He described the SRC as the “first language” of students at UNIVEN, a bridge that facilitates easier communication and strengthens advocacy. The most crucial role students must play, he stressed, is to speak without fear. Bringing issues forward empowers the SRC to represent students effectively in all forums, ensuring that decisions are informed and inclusive.

As he concluded his welcome, Mr Mathye delivered a message that he described as precise, honest, and perhaps unpopular, but necessary. The centre of academic performance, he said, is attending classes. Without guidance from lecturers, navigating assessments and achieving pass marks becomes far more difficult. His call for 2026 is clear: let this be a year of high-class attendance, not just for marks, but for long-term academic growth, strong performance, and a successful future.
